

April 25, 2017

On behalf of the Daniel K. Inouye Institute, the Library of Congress, and the University of Hawaii at Hilo, we are pleased to invite you to view a livestream of the Library of Congress Daniel K. Inouye Distinguished Lecture Series on Thursday, May 18, 2017 from 11:30 a.m. to 1:45 p.m. at the 'Imiloa Astronomy Center in Hilo. The lecture will take place at the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. and will be livestreamed to 'Imiloa. The discussion will highlight the evolution of the Peace Corps and how its ideals remain relevant today five decades after its founding.

The lecture is hosted by the Library of Congress' John W. Kluge Center, in conjunction with the Daniel K. Inouye Institute. This is the third lecture, in a fiveyear series, designed to celebrate the legacy of the late Daniel K. Inouye, who served as Hawaii's first U.S. representative and then as U.S. senator for nearly half a century. This lecture is titled, Inspiring a Sense of Service and Idealism featuring The Honorable Elaine Chao, Secretary of Transportation, and Reed Hastings, Chief Executive Officer, Netflix, moderated by Ann Compton, former ABC News White House Correspondent.

Secretary Chao, former director of the Peace Corps, and Mr. Hastings, a former Peace Corps volunteer, will reflect on their experiences with the Peace Corps, and as leaders in government and business. They will discuss the need for a spirit of service and idealism. In recognition of the centennial of the birth of President John F. Kennedy, this year's lecture was planned in collaboration with the Kennedy Center and the Peace Corps to focus on the values of service to the country and to the cause of peace held dear by both Kennedy and Inouye. Highlighting the importance Inouye placed on bipartisanship and moral courage, each lecture brings together voices from diverse backgrounds.

Please RSVP by May 9th by clicking here or visiting www.jotform.us/imiloa/ livestream. You can also RSVP by calling (808) 932-8920.

Registration will begin at 11:15 a.m. with a light lunch. The program begins at 11:45 a.m. with Emcee Dan Boylan welcoming attendees. There will be a short panel discussion. The livestream will begin at 12:30 p.m. We hope you will be able to join us.
